

QUALIFYING MEDICAL CONDITIONS

Any of the following conditions may qualify a patient for the medical use of marijuana.

To do so, the condition must interfere with one or more of the patient's major life activities, and the benefits of the medical use of marijuana must outweigh the risks.

AIDS	ADD/ADHD	ALS
Arthritis	Anxiety	Alzheimers
Back pain	Cachexia	Migraines
Cancer	Crohns or IBD	Movement disorders
Fibromyalgia	Depression	Parkinsons
Glaucoma	Eating disorders	Restless leg
HIV infection	Hepatitis C	Seizures
Multiple sclerosis	Insomnia	Sleep apnea
Post-traumatic pain	Nausea/vomiting	Tourettes
Scoliosis	PTSD	Other